The Fault In Our Stars

Sample of BOOK REVIEW ESSAY

I have just finished reading a breathtaking novel entitled The Fault In Our Stars. It is a mega bestselling novel written by a renowned author, John Green. The novel which falls into the genre of romantic fiction has impressed many young readers.

The story revolves around a teen girl, Hazel Lancaster, who is diagnosed with a stage 3 cancer. She can hardly remember life without cancer and has almost given up hope on her life. She then meets Augustus Waters, a cancer survivor, who reads her favourite books for her and hangs out with her. This helps her to gather strength. The two of them deal with cancer and love.

I enjoy reading the novel as it was written in a terrific way. It makes us become a part of the characters and feel the same emotions. Hazel and Augustus appeal to readers through their sense of humour and their courage. But behind this courage, both of them hide their pain to protect their families. The moral values that I learnt from the story is through a quote mentioned by Augustus, "If you want rainbow, you have to deal with the rain" which means if we want something desirable, we have to first go through the hardships.

I would definitely recommend it to anyone who believes in love and has the courage to fight for it. Through this book I realised that cancer not just touches victims, but it also touches all those who love.
